Talking About SOGI: what every juvenile court practitioner needs to know

Understanding how our clients identify is critical to the provision of zealous, client-centered advocacy. But how do we talk to clients about their sexual orientation and gender identity (SOGI) when the world is not a safe place? This interactive webinar will provide strategies to create safe spaces when interacting with clients, ensure clients understand how their SOGI information will be used, identify who should have access to this information, and more.

Bring your lunch, your ideas, and your questions!
